A picnic for members of the Alabamian class and their guests, members of the Gleaners class of the First Baptist church, school, will be held at the home of Mrs. S. D. Cook, 7 o'clock. For transportation members will please call 825.

Friday Contract Bridge club, home of Mrs. Raymond Jones, 9:30 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson will host members of the Elvion club at their home, 8 o'clock.

Mrs. E. O. Wingfield is hostess to the Thursday Evening Club Party. Late summer garden flowers were noted at vantage points in the home of Mrs. E. O. Wingfield Thursday afternoon when she entertained members of the Thursday bridge club and one guest, Mrs. W. Y. Foster.

Contract was played from two tables, and at the conclusion of the games, members' scores for the past series were totaled with the names of the winners and losers announced.

During the afternoon the hostess served "cokes" with dainty refreshments.

At the next meeting of the club, which will be a luncheon, the winners for the season, Mrs. Ralph Rounton, Mrs. P. S. McDowell, Mrs. Carter Johnson and Mrs. Terrell Cornelius will be entertained by Mrs. Wingfield, Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mrs. Roy Anderson, Mrs. Nick Jewell, and Mrs. C. C. McNeil.

Two Tables at Thursday Evening Club Party
Two tables were arranged for playing at the meeting of the Thursday Evening bridge club at the home of Mrs. Robin Sutherland Thursday evening.

In addition to the club members the guests were Mrs. Mack Duffie, Mrs. J. W. Jones, Mrs. Ralph McClellan, and Mrs. Harry Hawthorne. Miss Opal Garner was the high scorer for the club and was awarded a lovely gift.

The hostess served a salad course with an iced drink to the players.

Coming and Going

Miss Martha Jane Eason is visiting her sisters, the Misses Frances and Mary Eason, in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Louis W. Dodge and two daughters, Lila Sue and Mary Lou, have arrived from Redondo Beach, Calif., to be the guests of Mrs. Dodge's mother, Mrs. B. M. Jones.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Brewer of Augusta, Ark., are spending the remainder of the week with Mrs. Brewer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Higginson.

Home from their annual deep-sea fishing trip are: Senator Lloyd Spencer, Robert Wilson, Dr. Don Smith, E. M. McWilliams, Jim Wilson of Columbus, Leo Robins, S. E. McPherson, Frank Trimble, Hollis Luck, and George Wile. This year they went to Biloxi, Miss.

Miss Ruby Joyce Formby has returned from weeks spent in Little Rock with relatives and friends.

Judd Martindale, who has been attending summer school at Hendrix college, plans to spend the remainder of the summer at his home in the city.

Plant Ball New Garden Marvel

New York, Aug. 21.—Gardening enthusiasts can now devote full time to their victory vegetable gardens and still have lovely plants for home decoration with the new Magic Plant Ball. That's the promise of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company in introducing this novelty miniature garden to its customers.

Here is the "magic" secret. Seeds of five flowers—Nasturtium, Sweet Peas, Morning Glory, Dolichos, and Scarlet Runner—are carefully wrapped with rich plant foods and the miraculous new plant vitamin B1 in a ball of clean, fragrant, spagnum moss. Everything is there but the water. Set the ball in a dish or hanging basket, moisten it—and that's all. In a few days tiny sprouts begin to show. In a few weeks the miniature garden is thick green and luxurious.

Women who have used Magic Plant Balls report a strange fascination about this newest scientific garden marvel. For those who would like to possess one or more of these remarkable Magic Plant Balls, send a blank, supplied by the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company, are available at practically all grocery stores. The price is only 10c plus three box tops or wrapper pieces of any of the famous Colgate-Palmolive-Peet products.

Nashville Only Game Behind the Travelers

By The Associated Press
Nashville today is within an eye's wink of knocking Little Rock off its long-held top perch in the Southern Association.

The fast-striding Vols, hogging nearly all of the leaders' honors in the loop, edged to within half a game of the Rocks last night with a 7-3 decision over Chattanooga. Little Rock was not scheduled.

Vol Pitcher Paul Erickson limited the seventh-place Lookouts to eight hits, and struck out 13 men. His hard-hitting mates exploded a five-run rally in the fourth inning off Chattanooga's Anderson, and he went out in favor of Phil McCullough.

Pitcher Hardin Cathey and Catcher Mike Guerra were expelled from the park for disputing decisions, making the score for two nights — Umpires 6, Chattanooga 0.

Birmingham's pitching faded in the eighth inning and Memphis pushed over three runs to win 7-4. Birmingham took four games out of the six-game series, and the clubs ended up in a fourth-place tie, with Atlanta in fifth .001 percentage points behind.

Manager Paul Richards of Atlanta slapped a three-run homer off veteran Dick Cofman in the eighth inning to put the Crackers in front of Knoxville. The Crackers added four more runs off

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Aug. 21 — Looks as if the two All-Star teams will have to play all the Army's "big league" football this season. Yesterday's order cancelling competitive football for the air corps technical training school not only wiped out the Keesler Field program, which looked like the most ambitious of them all, but it provided a hint as to what may be going on in other branches. Maybe you noticed that Camp Lee, Va., scheduled several good college teams there called the whole thing off to concentrate on intra-camp sports; and Camp Shelby, Miss., cancelled its program, which included a tussle with the Cleveland Rams when it was suddenly discovered that maneuvers were due in mid-season. Incidentally, the Keesler Field boys had it figured out how they could play without taking an mechanics away from their training chores and they figured on raising $80,000 for Army relief.

One-Round Knockout
As a golfer, Fred Apostoli apparently throws as many hooks as he ever did in the ring. Fred played a round with Sam Snead down at the Norfolk Naval training station the other day and afterward he confessed, "I've never felt so lonesome in my life. Sam was straight down the middle and I was all over the course — by myself."

Steve Warchol in the ninth for a 9-4 triumph.

Hommer Cheats Wyatt Out of No Hit Game

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Brooklyn Dodgers still have a little matter to settle with the St. Louis Cardinals before they will be ready for the World Series, but their ace right-hander, Whitlow Wyatt, is as fully prepared for the October classic today as he can ever hope to be.

Wyatt, who never has pitched a no-hit game in his dozen years around the major leagues, came as close as possible yesterday when he let the New York Giants down with one blow as the Dodgers triumphed, 2-1, in a twilight-arc light game.

His only mistake was in trying to throw a fast one past big John Mize, who parked the ball behind the center field score board for his 20th home run.

Babe Young, a fugitive from first base, had his first look at the Dodgers' park from a center field post and apparently became confused in the unfamiliar surroundings.

After Johnny Rizzo had singled off Tom Sunkel, Dolph Camilli hit a long fly which Young misjudged and let fall for a three-bagger, which tied the score and Mickey Owen singled for the final and winning run.

In compiling his 15th victory against only four defeats, Wyatt fanned six, walked none, and, aside from Mize, didn't allow a man to get on base except in the fourth when Mickey Witke reached first on an error and Mel Ott was hit by a pitched ball.

The victory, opening an important four-game series, boosted the Dodgers' National League lead to seven games over the Cardinals, who were idle.

In the only other National League game, the Cincinnati Reds snapped a six-game losing streak and crept up on the third-place Giants by turning back the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3.

Johnny Vander Meer pitched six-hit ball for his 14th win and missed a shutout when Vince Di Maggio blasted a three-run homer in the eighth.

The Boston Red Sox, refusing to concede the American League flag to New York's front-running defending champs, walloped the Yankees, 7-4, and rounded out a four-game series with three triumphs.

Jim Tabor, who hit a pair of two-run homers in leading the Sox to victory the previous day, homered with two mates aboard yesterday to climax a six-run outburst in the fifth inning.

At the other end of the junior circuit, the Philadelphia Athletics

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

By RENE RYERSON MART

CHAPTER I

"LETTY, Tom's asked me to marry him."

Letty Fields stopped trying to get the freshly laundered, pink gingham dress over the head of the squirming baby on her knees, and looked anxiously at her younger sister.

"Are you going to?"

Enid Sharon kept her eyes on little Ann. What an adorable picture she was with her mop of red-gold curls, her apple-blossom skin, and her rosy fat little fists that were beating the air in time to some unheard symphony. Suddenly she leaned forward, lifted the half-dressed baby off her sister's lap, and snuggled her against her shoulder. The baby's cheek against hers was softer than the softest velvet.

Longing tightened around Enid's heart. She wanted this, a baby—a baby of her own to cuddle in her arms, a little house to keep bright and shining, a man of her own, and a woman's age-old right of helping that man to make a home.

Letty who was old-looking at 30. Letty who had three children when Phil's wages were only adequate for one. Letty who was always worried about bills and the insecurity of Phil's job. Letty who was lonelier with her husband than Enid was as a spinster. For Phil only came home at night to take his shoes off and prop his weary feet on the coffee table while he read and dozed and dozed.

Enid was thinking of this when she finally answered Letty's question. "I don't know, Letty. I don't know whether I'll marry him or not."

Enid reached over and took the pink dress out of Letty's hands

"Go ahead and marry Tom," Letty said. "You're 24, Enid. You'll soon be an old maid."

the boy, yet, and you have me with a family."

"Tom's a good boy," Letty persisted.

Enid supposed Letty meant by that that he didn't drink, or smoke to excess, or gamble, and that he'd probably never run after other women. He was good-looking, too, husky, with a fresh clear skin and full of spirit and a liking for fun.

Maybe she was a romantic little fool, but she had always dreamed of a man who would be very gentle and kind. A man whose eyes would show his adoration when he looked at her. A man who would love books and paintings as she did, who would like to take long Sunday afternoon rambles, or sit quietly by an open wood fire and talk.

Tom laughed at things like that. He wanted action and excitement in his recreation. It was, "Come on, Babe. Let's go to a ball game," or, "Let's take a drive." A drive with Tom meant tearing through the countryside at 60 or 70 miles an hour with the top of his convertible down and the wind tearing at her face and hair.

The front door downstairs banged. Phil was home. Letty started guiltily to her feet and headed for the stairs. Her husband liked his meal on the table promptly. Enid followed more leisurely with little Ann. She put her down in her play crib in the living room and went to help Letty dish up the supper.

They ate in the kitchen, a noisy, hectic meal with the twins babbling constantly and little Ann drumming with her spoon when she didn't immediately get something she wanted, and Phil at the end of the table intent on his own food and the evening paper propped in front of him.

Enid always came directly from work to Letty's one night a week to have supper with them and see the children. She was fond of the noisy little scamp. But tonight in her perplexed mood she found their exuberance distracting. She helped Letty cut up food for Eric and little Enid, and fed the gurgling Ann soup and apple-sauce, and when at last the children were satisfied she found that her own appetite had fled.

It was too hot to eat, anyway.

Russia Still Remains As Major Front of the Allies

Other Battles Are Merely Training Bouts

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt MacKenzie, Wide World War Analyst, is written today in MacKenzie's absence by Glenn Babb.)

Winston Churchill's dramatic travels and the magnificent adventure of Dieppe have relegated the war in Russia to smaller headlines this week but has done nothing to alter the fact that the one major front remains that along the Don and in the Caucasus foothills. There is the one place that the fortunes of all the United Nations are in the balance, where tremendous decisions affecting the duration of the war, the cost of victory but the question of victory itself are in the making.

Comparatively the other fights are training bouts—preliminaries. There is nothing preliminary or tentative about the battle of the Don bend. It is made of bread and butter for the two greatest armies in the world.

Today's Moscow communique is one of the best for many days. It recites the usual list of battlefields where thousands of men are dying without any of the too frequent admissions of retreat. But it would be a mistake to draw too much encouragement from a single half day's record. Only last night the Russians had to report a damaging series of setbacks.

Stalingrad has become the symbol of victory in this campaign. There is no blinking the fact that this great industrial city and communications center, whose sentimental value to the Russians is almost as important as its strategic importance, is in serious peril. The tremendous battle for its possession, already nearly a month old, is being fought in an obscure little town, the fate of which is either Russian or German—but the broad outlines of the struggle have been made manifest.

From the northwest Marshal Fedor Von Bock, having conquered most of the Don bend, is engaged in a titanic effort to force a crossing of the river only a few miles from the city. From the southwest another powerful armored and infantry force is attacking from the Kotelnirovsk area. The Russian admission that not all the enemy who crossed the Don have been wiped out is ominous.

Stalingrad's hour comes just as her sister city of the north completes the first year of one of the great sieges of history. It was a year ago today that Hitler's guns attacked fearfully whether the city of Stalingrad could stand the siege of the city of Lenin in the list of heroic last ditchers. The answer must be tinged with grave doubts. The city on the Volga, has none of the formidable natural barriers that have helped save the city on the Neva.

Meanwhile many questions bearing on this turning point in human affairs haunt an anxious worldwide public. The answers to most probably are as elusive to their leaders as to the rank and file. What does Marshal Timoshenko's reserves? Does the abandonment of so much of the Caucasus and its wealth in oil mean the Red leader is trading territory for time while he holds to his primary objective, preservation of the Red Army as an intact fighting force? How far has Russia's striking power been diminished by the terrible losses of men, of industrial strength, of food producing lands? Can Allied aid be sufficient to keep the Russians fighting effectively until the Americans and British are ready? Will winter come in time and will it, in the more sheltered climates in which Hitler has now penetrated, be as stout an ally to the Russians and all of us as it was a year ago?

Service Team Has Schedule

Corpus Christi, Texas, Aug. 21 —The U. S. Naval Air Station here must be figuring on becoming uncrowned champion of the Southwest Conference this fall. The Nas team has already scheduled three conference powers—including the championship co-favorites—and is expected to add a fourth soon.

The filers open the season Sept. 19 with the University of Texas at Austin. The critics are predicting Texas and Texas A & M will battle it out for the title. Nas makes it unanimous by playing A. and M. at Corpus Christi Oct. 10.

Oct. 26, the filers take on Rice Institute at Houston. Rice, you know, is expected in most quarters to give the Aggies and Texas their most trouble.

Down for Oct. 24 at Dallas—as soon as certain formalities are carried out for a definite announcement is a game with Southern Methodist University, another tough one.

Texas Christian University ranks with the first division teams you say, and Nas hasn't got a game with the Frogs. Well, the ers take care of that by playing at Pensacola Naval Air Station twice—at Corpus Christi Oct. 31 and at Pensacola, Fla. Nov. 14. Texas Christian, you see, has a game with Pensacola—so that ought to give a good comparison between Nas and TCU.

It's something of a naval secret right now just who will be on the squad and it won't be announced until Sept. 1 but it's been talked about that such fellows as Billy Dewell and Chelsea Crouch, former Southern Methodist greats will be on the team. Dewell played with the pro Chicago Cardinals last year.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS
Chicago, Aug. 21—(P)—Wheat prices fluctuated within a range of only 1-2 cent a bushel today and other grains except corn held to a correspondingly narrow span as the market reflected contraction of trading interest because of the uncertainty as to the nature of anti-inflation proposals now being drafted in Washington.

Reports that some government officials were studying plans that would mean eventual virtual stabilization of farm prices around parity levels chilled both buyers and sellers. Traders said there was no incentive for investment or speculative action until this situation is clarified and as a result that market was guided almost entirely by small scale commercial transactions.

Wheat closed 1-8 lower to 1-4 higher compared with yesterday, September $1 18 3-4, December $1 21 3-4-5-8; corn 5-8-1-1-8 higher, September 84 7-8-85, December 87 3-8-1-2; oats 1-4-1-2 up; rye 1-8-3-8 higher; soybeans unchanged to 1-4 lower.

Willkie to Tell of War Effort

Washington, Aug. 21—(P)—President Roosevelt said today that Wendell L. Willkie, who opposed him for the presidency on the Republican ticket in 1940, was going to the Near East and Russia to tell those countries the truth about the American war effort and the unity behind it.

The president told a press conference that in addition to Russia, Willkie's itinerary would include Egypt, Arabia, Palestine, Syria, Turkey, Iraq, and Iran.

The best thing to call him, Mr. Roosevelt said, is a special representative of the president, since he will carry letters not only to various Americans but also to officials of other countries, including Premier Stalin of Russia.

In each country, the president said, in replying to a question as to Willkie's specific mission, his principal task will be to tell them the truth, reporting as the leader of the minority party in this country. As his leader, he said, Willkie's words would carry very great weight.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the Republican chief had been asked to carry to these nations a comparison of what would happen to them if the Axis won, and if the United Nations won.

'Dollar-a-Year' Men Hit by CIO
Washington, Aug. 21—(P)—Blaming "certain dollar-a-year men" for the War Production Board's shortage of critical war materials, CIO members of WPB's labor advisory committee called upon Chairman Donald M. Nelson today for their dismissal.

As WPB officials disclosed that Nelson had directed a review of personnel and elimination of executives considered unsuitable to their jobs, the advisory committee's three CIO members made public a resolution protesting that the war effort was "being paralyzed" as a result of inefficient planning.

The petition was signed by Clinton Golden, assistant to the president of the United Steel Workers of America; John Green, president of the CIO International Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America; and Walter Reuther, vice president of the United Automobile and Aircraft Workers of America.

"Every effort to expand steel production facilities and to plan for maximum utilization of present steel production facilities," the resolution asserted, "has been blocked by vested interests in the steel industry who have been given aid and comfort by certain dollar-a-year men in important positions in the iron and steel branch of the WPB."

Jim Farley Re-Nominated

New York, Aug. 21—(P)—James A. Farley, victorious in obtaining the Democratic nomination of Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., for governor, was re-elected today for another two-year term as chairman of the Democratic state committee at a meeting of the national Democratic clubs.

Farley's first act after his reelection as head of the party in New York state was to urge full support for Bennett, who won a bitter convention battle yesterday.

U. S. Senator James M. Mead, President Roosevelt's choice for governor, Farley predicted Bennett not only would get such support, but also would win the backing of many Republicans and Independents.

A three-way race for the New York governorship loomed today with the power-balancing American Labor party believed likely to enter its own choice because of the nomination by the Democrats of State Attorney General John J. Bennett.

Leaders of the Labor party, which convenes here tomorrow, announced last Saturday that if Bennett won the Democratic nomination over U. S. Senator James M. Mead they would name an independent state ticket headed by Joseph D. McGoldrick, New York City comptroller.

Court Tests Will's Legality
White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 21—(P)—Snowed out of a Philippines jungle on March 6, a United States Army captain, surrounded by Japs, included very comments on his predicament in his will, written in letter form, the legality of which was pondered by surrogate court today.

Whether the captain, Lamont T. Clark of Lake Mahopac, is alive is not known. If the letter, which somehow reached his attorney, is admitted to probate, it would dispose of an estate estimated at $60,000.

"Sherman's definition of war is entirely inadequate," the captain wrote, "but the old gentleman wrote: 'but the advantage of seeing the effects of a modern bomb dropped from a height of 20,000 or more feet. Neither did he ever have the pleasure (?) of being strafed by a plane armed with four 50-caliber machine guns and going 200 M.P.H. at a distance of only four or five hundred feet. Both of the above I have had—not once but several times in the past three months."

Captain Clark wrote that his wife was in Manila and "possibly she is dead." He gave instructions for disposal of property to friends and relatives if his wife is dead. The court is withholding the provisions pending determination of the Clarks' fate.

"We keep looking and hoping for relief but to date nothing doing," Captain Clark's letter said. "If it comes soon you may hear from me again but if it doesn't you probably won't, as I understand there is no mail service across the straits. If I cross before you do I'll tell old Charon to give you a good seat."

"One good thing about this situation is that one can never be accused of turning one's back to the enemy, because, as the enemy are all around us, you automatically face them no matter in which direction you look—even up."

In May, the New York legislature legalized soldiers' holographic wills not attested by the usual two witnesses, but there might be some question whether the statute was retroactive. The captain's will was attested by one soldier.

U. S. Warplanes Sink 3rd Sub Within Week

Rio De Janeiro, Aug. 21—(P)—Sinking of another Axis submarine off the Brazilian coast—the third reported destroyed in those waters this week—was credited unofficially today to United States warplanes operating from somewhere in Brazil.

Dispatches from Fortaleza on the northern side of the Brazilian "bulge," said the submarine was attacked and sent to the bottom by bombers piloted by a Captain Tauney and a Lieutenant Dante, but gave no other details.

Reports of the sinking came as President Getulio Vargas announced that henceforth all Brazilian merchantmen moving through the usual sea lanes would be conveyed by the Navy and air force in cooperation with United States naval and air units.

The chief executive made his announcement.
